Critical Reflection 1 (12.5% of final grade, 80 points):

- A ~1,500-word essay covering material up to this point, due Mar 23, 2026.
- Grading: Evaluated using the rubric with 4 categories, each scored 5–20 points (max 80). See rubric below.

Presentation (15% of final grade, 96 points):

For this portion of the grade, we will conduct a series of dnd adventures modeled on hard to solve philosophical problems. For instance, in Plato's Republic, Plato uses the thought of a cave holding prisoners who've never seen the outside. All the things they think are objects in the world, really are just crude imitations projected onto a wall in front of them. One escapes and realizes everything he's been told is a lie. If he goes back, no one will believe him, what should he do?

Sunlight Revelation (Books VI-VII, Cave Allegory)	You reach the exit: Blinding sun! Puppets were lies. Return to free others? They mock you as mad.	- Question: “Forms vs. shadows—what’s real?” (Insight roll: 15+ → Vision quest boon; Low → Blinded retreat.) - Suggestion: “Descend as educators.” (Strength roll: Success → Convert prisoners; Fail → Stoned as heretic.) - Others: Resistance rolls → “Allegory boss”: High total → Party ascends enlightened.
